

To Whom It May Concern,

I'm reaching out to you on behalf of singer/songwriter and lecturer Elaine Romanelli.

In a recent article from AXS Elaine was called the "next Sara Bareilles."

Elaine's work and collaborations include working on Broadway with Tony Kushner and Maurice Sendak's collaboration, BRUNDIBAR, she has been featured on WFUV in NYC and other radio stations throughout the country, she was recently featured in the Huffington post and her new album is co-produced by legendary songwriter and activist Si Kahn.

Elaine is very active in her community and in addition to creative work as a singer and musician; she is a teacher and hosts workshops and lectures empowering young artists and helping to give a voice to women both literally and figuratively helping them learn the tools needed to become entrepreneurs and to take charge of their own lives, personally, creatively.

Elaine's new album, "The Hour Before" will be released this month on the 21st, and her release party and concert is April 25th at Rockwood Music Hall in New York City at 7pm. There will also be a raffle at the release party and all donations to the raffle will be given to one of Elaine's favorite charities. In the coming weeks we are seeking reviews and features of Elaine's new album and her work in the hopes of promoting the release party concert, her new album and broadening her fanbase.

As you know, good exposure is key to the success of an independent artist.

We would like to invite you to check out Elaine's new album, and if you are inclined to do so, review and feature your review. Elaine would be happy to also do an interview either in person or over the phone as well.

Thank You,

Maya Jordan

To check out a sneak peak of Elaine's new album, you can hear tracks at this private link - <https://soundcloud.com/elaineromanelli/sets/sampler-for-promoters/s-bgrGq> this link is for promotional use only and not to be distributed or shared. If you would like to include listening tracks to your review, please let me know and I can send you links.